

Countdown

Kate AKS

She tenderly crossed off one more day from calendar, like always in the morning. She was ready to start, but she didn't hurry up. She decided it will be on first day of New Year, when everyone will be sleeping after festive night.

She will make it and it will be new day and new way of life. She will make proper decisions. She will start to live life of her dreams, she postponed it for so long and now she wants to make it, she is ready.

Her phone distracted her from dreams.

- Now? - Repeated she.

She opened door to smiling delivery man.

- Good morning. Happy holidays. Special delivery of every purchase, as bonus from firm, before Christmas and New Year. Sign up here.

- Yes. It's lovely. - She nodded and almost smiled to the man who brought her package.

Woman closed the door, put box on the chair and opened it. There were pink sneakers with golden shoelaces. She looked to her special countdown calendar and remove it from the wall.

December 2018