

Random words.

Kate AKS

- It's easy. It's fun. - Insisted she. - Come on. Random words which came to your mind. It's fun.

- It should be fun. You wanted to say. - Said he.

- Please, let's try again. I prepared this game for our party guests on New Year. It will be fun. - She made her variation of "puppy's eyes".

- For party guest's I prepared enough bottles for fun. - Answered he.
- I know. And before this? - Asked she.
- I thought all games start only after. - He shrugged shoulders. - Fine. From the start.
- Why you played such stubborn? - Asked she.
- I played me. Begin.
- Morning.
- Alarm clock.
- Try harder. - Insisted she. - Dawn.
- Alarm clock.
- The same will be for breakfast, I think so. - Said she.
- Random words. Everything by rules. - Explained himself.
- Patience.
- With you. - Said he.
- Thanks. - Grinned she. - Love.
- Just you. And some patience. - Smiled he.
- Marriage. - She almost whispered.
- What? I was sure that you didn't find. I checked in the morning. - Shouted he.

- I knew it. It was there, in that box with instruments. - She run from the room by stairs to the garage.

- I was right, she won't open that box... - Crazy scream from garage proved that she found little box. - At least we won't play in "random words". I should made it earlier.

He slowly walked to the garage, from there already was some victorious squeak.
